Altair Filter Technology is an international company producing air cleaning filters and associated equipment for installation on gas turbine power plants operating mainly in the Oil & Gas, Power Generation and Marine business sectors. While our head office is based in the UK, we also have offices in the US and are represented globally through a strong network of agents.

Since 2001 we have had cause to use the CFR Group on a number of occasions in the UK, US and Czech Republic. In each case the CFR Group has performed well and the individuals working for the Group have all been very approachable, personable and flexible in order to accommodate our needs.

We have been very pleased with the results from the CFR Group and believe that they offer a very cost effective solution to fulfilling our personnel requirements. This, with the addition of their experience and strong presence in other areas of the world, means that they will continue to be our first port of call for overseas human resourcing in the future.
